

A Better Tomorrow is Only a Step Away: Raushandah White

As an Army wife and mother of three, Raushandah White was committed to providing for her family's future. Her mantra: "Work hard, stay focused, and remember the career opportunities that lie ahead. A better tomorrow is only a step away."

Today she is a double-graduate from Brown Mackie College-Hopkinsville, KY completing both the Medical Assistant and Medical Billing & Coding programs. Graduating with a 3.9 GPA, she was able to maintain a balance between devoting time to her husband, an Army service member; her three small children; and volunteering through the American Red Cross at the Blanchfield Army Community Hospital in Fort Campbell.

Upon graduation, Raushandah transitioned her volunteer opportunity into a paid position in the hospital's Young Eagles Clinic as a Certified Medical Assistant. There, she provides medical care using the nursing processes (assess, plan, implement, and evaluate), and works with patients of all ages to identify and monitor vital signs and other medical care needs.

"Work hard, stay focused, and remember the career opportunities that lie ahead," said Raushandah. "A better tomorrow is only a step away."
