

CoARC RESPONSE TO RECENT ANNOUNCEMENT OF PROGRAM CLOSURES (Released 12/10/18)

In early December the Educational Corporation of America (ECA) announced that the following institutions, which are sponsors of CoARC-accredited respiratory care programs, have ceased operations:

1. Brightwood College, Salida, CA – sponsor of program #200433
2. Brightwood Career Institute, Philadelphia, PA - sponsor of program #200512
3. Virginia College, Austin, TX – sponsor of program #211601

As of the release date of this notice, neither the ECA or any of these institutions has provided the CoARC with any information regarding these closures. More specifically, the CoARC has not received any withdrawal notices or teach-out plans/agreements, as required by the CoARC Accreditation Policies and Procedures. Accordingly, the CoARC is in the process of contacting these institutions to confirm their closure and to request that they submit the necessary documentation. We will update the status of these programs on our website once we have received official confirmation.

The CoARC understands that students and parents are worried and confused as this situation unfolds. The following information should be helpful.

What You Should Do First

Obtain a copy of your academic transcripts and financial aid documentation from your institution as soon as possible, even if you are planning to participate in the program teach-out. Keep in mind that the CoARC does not keep copies of student transcripts and financial aid information.

Your Status after Loss of Accreditation

Whether you complete program and degree requirements at your current institution, OR you transfer to another CoARC-accredited program and complete all programmatic and degree requirements at that institution, you will be considered a graduate of a CoARC-accredited program and will be eligible to apply for the NBRC Respiratory Care Credentialing Examination(s).

If You Choose to Transfer to Another Respiratory Care Program

There are other CoARC-accredited programs that may be willing to help you complete your education. Using the Find an Accredited Program link on our website you can search by state or by institutional name. You would then need to contact your chosen program directly to discuss the admission and completion process. Specific information about a program is located on the program's website.

Every institution retains the right to determine what credits and degrees it will accept. The transferability of your credits depends on several factors, including your current program sponsor's institutional accreditation, the compatibility of your current program's curriculum, and your grades. To determine whether your credits are transferable, you will need to check with the Registrar or Admissions office of the school to which you intend to apply. No college, school or accrediting agency can require an institution to accept credits earned elsewhere.

Other Helpful Resources

- U.S. Department of Education Federal Student Aid Web site: Has Your School Closed? Here's What to Do, go to <https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/about/announcements/closed-school>
- Questions about U.S. Federal financial aid programs should be directed to the Federal Student Aid office:
 - Federal Student Aid website: <https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/contact>
 - 1-800-4-FED-AID (1-800-433-3243)
- <http://nextstepsedu.org/>

Supported by the U.S. Department of Education, this resource offers help to students affected by college closures. Students can use the site to contact experienced financial aid and academic counselors for guidance about how to continue their studies.

Any questions regarding this notice should be addressed to Tom Smalling, CoARC CEO at tom@coarc.com or by phone at 817-283-2835 ext. 101